

OASIS

A Rutgers faculty development program for academic women

Do you want to become a more effective leader, negotiator and personal advocate?

Do you need a fresh strategy to get your writing and research done?

Do you want to increase your connections to the academic community?

The Objective Analysis of Self and Institution Seminar (OASIS) is a semester-long program with approximately 20 female faculty participating in workshops, peer mentoring, and individual coaching.

Spring 2018 Newark Program

- 1/26 Leading and Collaborating Skillfully
- 2/16 Writing, Procrastination, and Resistance: How to Identify Your Funk and Move through It
- 3/23 Get Recognized for Your Work: Strategies to Build Your Influence in Academia and Beyond
- 4/20 Negotiation Skills for Work and Life
- 5/18 Navigating Competing Priorities

9:30 a.m. – 2:30 p.m.

John Cotton Dana Library, The Dana Room

Rutgers University-Newark

Coffee and lunch will be provided

Read More:

academicaffairs.rutgers.edu/oasis-leadership-and-professional-development

