THE ERNEST E. MCMAHON - CLASS OF 1930 AWARD

The Ernest E. McMahon-Class of 1930 Award is funded by the Class of 1930 of Rutgers College. The award is named in honor of Ernest E. McMahon (RC '30) who was a dean of University College, dean of the University Extension Division, and director of the Institute of Management and Labor Relations, and who demonstrated a commitment to extending the mission of Rutgers to new populations. In the spirit of Ernest McMahon, this award is given to an individual or a group within Rutgers University that has made a significant and creative contribution to the extension of the educational resources of the University to the people of New Jersey through such means as continuing education or extramural programs. Programs eligible for this award can be credit or non-credit, on-campus or off-campus. Recipients can be faculty, staff, or students.
