Tri-Annual Area Updates for School of Communication and Information
(October 2013 – January 2014)

Faculty Activities and Accomplishments

Department of Communication

Part-time faculty member Michael Bzdak authored a book chapter, "Public/Private Partnerships to Improve and Enhance Health Systems" in the book _Transforming the Global Health Workforce_, Marilyn A. DeLuca, PhD, RN and Agnes Soucat, MD, MPH, PhD, editors, September 2013, New York University, College of Nursing.

Professor Jennifer Gibbs and PhD student Nik Rozaidi published an article recently in Journal of Computer-Mediated Communication entitled "Overcoming the 'Ideology of Openness': Probing the Affordances of Social Media for Organizational Knowledge Sharing."

Lecturer and Director of Undergraduate Studies Brian Householder published an article titled “Extemporaneous Speaking Competitions: Investigating the Impact of Conventional Extemporaneous Speech Organization and Judge Experience on Speaker Ratings” in the journal The Forensic.

Part-time faculty member and SC&I PhD alumna Kate Immordino (who is Director of Research at Rutgers ODL) has published a new book, _Organizational Assessment and Improvement in the Public Sector Workbook_(CRC Press). http://www.amazon.com/Organizational-Assessment-Improvement-Workbook-Administration/dp/1466579943/ref=sr_1_1?s=books&ie=UTF8&qid=1381778849&sr=1-1

Professor Lisa Mikesell, with co-authors Elizabeth Bromley and Dmitry Khodyakov, published a paper, "Ethical Community-Engaged Research: A Literature Review", in the American Journal of Public Health available online ahead of print. The article is highlighted in this month’s NIEHS National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences newsletter

Professor Jenny Mandelbaum’s submitted paper at NCA to the Language and Social Interaction Division won a Top Paper Award.

Professor Craig Scott’s book, “Anonymous Agencies, Backstreet Businesses, and Covert Collectives: Rethinking Organizations in the 21st Century,” earned the Scholarly Book of the Year Award from the Organizational Communication Division at NCA.

Professor Jennifer Theiss, co-authored the article “Generalized Anxiety and Relational Uncertainty as Predictors of Topic Avoidance During Reintegration Following Military Deployment” in the current issue of Professor Jennifer Theiss received the Early Career Award from the Interpersonal Communication Division at NCA. This prestigious award is presented to scholars within the first eight years of their careers whose work significantly contributes to the understanding of interpersonal communication.

Professor Jennifer Theiss and PhD student, Marie Haverfield, received a Top Paper Award from the Family Communication Division at NCA for their paper “Alcoholic and Non-alcoholic Parents’ Orientations toward Conformity and Conversation as Predictors of Attachment and Psychological Well-being for Adult Children of Alcoholics.”

Professor Jennifer Theiss published an article in the latest issue of Journal of Communication with her coauthor Leanne Knobloch from the University of Illinois entitled “A Relational Turbulence Model of Military Service Members’ Relational Communication during Reintegration.”

Department of Journalism and Media Studies

Professor Melissa Aronczyk published an article in the European Journal of Cultural Studies. "Confidence Game: Marketing Wellbeing in Economic Surveys," was published online Nov. 15, 2013. DOI: 10.1177/1367549413508742

Professor Melissa Aronczyk published an essay in the online review magazine Public Books. The essay, "What's So Social About Social Media?", reviews three recently published books: Alice Marwick’s Status Update: Celebrity, Publicity and Branding in the Social Media Age, Jonathan Sterne’s MP3: The Meaning of a Format, and José van Dijck’s The Culture of Connectivity: A Critical History of Social Media.

Professor and department chair, Jack Bratich published an article in the journal Cultural Studies<->Critical Methodologies, in a special issue devoted to transparency, titled "Adventures in the Public Secret Sphere Police Sovereign Networks and Communications Warfare."

He was also referenced in an article in the New York Times Book Review on "Kennedy, the Elusive President." http://www.nytimes.com/2013/10/27/books/review/the-elusive-president.html

Professor Susan Keith published an essay on instructor presence in online teaching titled "Letting Online Students Know You're There," in the January issue of AEJMC News, the newsletter of the Association for Education in Journalism and Mass Communication. Professor Keith is the 2013-2014 chair of the AEJMC Standing Committee on Teaching and a member of the AEJMC board.

Professor Robert Kubey published an article titled “On Stopping School Shootings and Building a More Humane Society” in the Huffington Post on Dec. 14, the one year anniversary of the Sandy Hook/Newtown shooting.

Professor Deepa Kumar co-authored an article titled “Homeland and the Imagination of National Security” that appeared in Jacobin.

Professor Aram Sinnreich published a book called The Piracy Crusade

Department of Library and Information Science

Professor Nicholas Belkin was selected by ASIS&T SIG USE as the winner of the 2013 Outstanding Contribution to Information Behavior Research Award.

Part-time faculty member Nancy Kranich has recently published a number of articles related to libraries and civic engagement:

Professor and Chair Marie Radford and Lecturer Joyce Valenza published an article titled "The Myth and the Reality of the Evolving Patron: A Report and Reactions to the 2013 RUSA President's Program with Lee Rainie" in the Reference and User Services Quarterly. This article was published as a summary of a discussion Radford and Valenza and the other authors gave with, and in reaction to, a speech by Lee Rainie of the Pew Research Center's Internet and American Life Project. The talk was at the American Library Association's Annual Conference in Chicago in June 2013.
Professor Chirag Shah published the paper “Collaborative Information Seeking” in the Journal of the Association for Information Science and Technology (JASIST).

Professor Anselm Spoerri’s research article which appeared in MIT Technology Review in 2013 has been included in the "Best of 2013" selection of the MIT Technology Review stories related to Emerging Technology From the arXiv

Professional Development Studies

Digital Communication, Information and Media

Dean’s Office

Student Activities and Accomplishments

PhD student Malgorzata (Maggie) Boyraz presented a poster "Exploring the role of technology and culture in innovative global teams" at the Organizational Communication Mini Conference (OCMC) organized by the Communication Department of the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign on October 5, 2013.

PhD student Erik Choi presented a poster at the Human-Centered Information Retrieval (HCIR) symposium in Vancouver on October 3:

PhD student Erik Choi was invited to the doctoral seminar at the American Society of Information Science & Technology (ASIST) Annual Meeting in Montreal, QC, Canada where he presented his dissertation proposal, "Motivations and Expectations for Asking a Question in Online Q&A."

PhD students Erik Choi, Vanessa Kitzie and Professor Chirag Shah presented the paper “Questioning the Question – Addressing the Answerability of Questions in Community Question-Answering” at the Proceedings of Hawaii International Conference on System Sciences (HICSS) Jan. 6-9, 2014.

PhD student Jessica Crowell presented on a panel, "Tools and Techniques for Social Science Classroom Engagement," sponsored by Rutgers' Teaching Assistant Project and Graduate School of Education on October 24, 2013.

PhD student Stephen DiDomenico presented on a panel, "Tools and Techniques for Social Science Classroom Engagement," sponsored by Rutgers' Teaching Assistant Project and Graduate School of Education on October 24, 2013.
PhD student Stephen DiDomenico was selected to appear in the “Graduate Students From Around the World” section of the Fall 2013 newsletter of the American Sociological Association’s section/division on Ethnomethodology and Conversation Analysis.

PhD student Stephen DiDomenico is featured in two new "quick teaching tip" videos produced by the graduate school's teaching-focused organization, called the Teaching Assistant Project (TAP). The videos, Using Creative Lecture/Session Titles to Entice Your Students and Planting the 'Walk-In Question’ to Jumpstart Your Student's Minds are on “TAP's YouTube Channel”.

PhD student Ralph Gigliotti presented a paper, "University crises: Improvisational leadership during moments of uncertainty" at the New York State Communication Association Conference on Friday, October 18, 2013, in Ellenville, NY.

PhD student Jack Harris was honored by Georgian Court University for his work with Oceanport Office of Emergency Management and Oceanport Cares on Hurricane Sandy responses and recovery in the past year.

PhD student Marie Haverfield and Professor Jennifer Theiss presented the paper, "Alcoholic and Non-Alcoholic Parents' Orientations toward conformity and Conversation as Predictors of Attachment and Psychological Well-being for Adult Children of Alcoholics," at the 2013 National Communication Association conference. This paper received a Top 4 Paper Award in the Family Communication Division.

PhD students Marie Haverfield and John Leustek presented the paper, "Social Support Strategies Among Adult Children of Alcoholics in Online Forums," at the 2013 National Communication Association conference in Washington, D.C.

PhD student Heewon Kim presented a paper titled "The awareness paradox: The role of enterprise social media use in knowledge sharing/surveillance in a global high-tech organization" at the 26th annual Organizational Communication Mini Conference hosted by University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign on October 6, 2013.

PhD students Vanessa Kitzie and Erik Choi along with Professor Chirag Shah won the SIG USE Best Poster Award for “From Bad to Good: An Investigation of Question Quality and Transformation” at the ASIST conference held Nov. 1-5. They also presented their paper, “Analyzing Question Quality through Intersubjectivity: World Views and Objective Assessments of Questions on Social-Question Answering,” and poster, “10 Points for the Best Answer! — Baiting for Explicating Knowledge Contributions within Online Q&A.”

PhD student Xiaofeng Li presented a paper and a poster at the ASIST conference, Nov. 1-5, titled “Collaborative Information Seeking in the Wild: Middle-Schoolers’ Self-Initiated Teamwork Strategies to Support Game Design.” She, along with Professor Rebecca Reynolds, and PhD student Eun Baik presented the poster: “An Exploratory Study of Middle School Students’ Sense making in a Collaborative Game Design Educational Project.”

PhD student Zhe Li presented the paper titled "Organizational Image and Reputation Construction on Social Media: An Affordance Approach" in the organizational communication division of the National Communication Association’s 99th Annual Convention, held in November 2013 in Washington, D.C.

PhD student Connie Pascal presented a paper at the International Conference on Knowledge Management, held in Montreal, Quebec, Canada, Nov. 2, titled “The Use of Knowledge Management in Health Care: The Implementation of Shared Care Plans in Electronic Medical Record Systems.” The paper was co-authored with Dean Claire McInerney; John Orzano, NH Dartmouth Family Medicine Residency-Concord; and Elizabeth Clark, Alfred Tallia and Lynn Clemow, all of Rutgers Biological and Health Sciences.

PhD students Andrew Salvati and Jonathan Bullinger have published a book chapter:

PhD student Andrew J. Salvati, presented a paper Nov. 1 as part of a conference panel that he organized. The conference was the Annual Conference of the Society for U.S. Intellectual History, held at the University of California, Irvine. The panel was called “The Play of History: Media, Culture, and the Production of Alternative Historical Narratives.” His own paper on the panel was titled “Allegory as Resistance: You Are There and the War on McCarthyism.”

PhD student Inyoung Shin was awarded the top paper award by the Korean Association for Broadcasting & Telecommunication studies (KABTS) for his paper, "Effects of ‘Smartphone Dependency’ on Traditional Media Use and Talking with Others: Applying Media-System Dependency Theory," (with Yong-Chan Kim). The paper was published in the Journal of Broadcasting and Telecommunication (Korean).

PhD student Robert Spicer published the article, “When More Speech is Not Enough: An Argument for the Regulation of Political Deception Through a Campaign Ethics Council” in the Jefferson Journal of Science and Culture. The article was part of his dissertation.

PhD student Aaron Trammell presented a paper entitled "A Brief History of Biogamification" at the Apps and Affect Conference at Western University in London on October 19-20, 2013.
http://appsandaffect.blogspot.com/

PhD student Steve Voorhees presented a paper at NCA titled, "Political Branding, Ideology, & the Media: Appropriating the Tea Party as a Cultural Brand."

- Academic Programs

  Department of Communication

  Department of Journalism and Media Studies

  Department of Library and Information Science

  Digital Communication, Information and Media

  Professional Development Studies

  Dean’s Office

- Public/Community Service; Outreach Efforts (e.g., interviews; workshops)

  Department of Communication

  Professor Matthew Weber gave an invited lecture titled, "Utilizing Archival Internet Data to Understand the Growth of Networks," at the Web Observatory Workshop, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston, MA, on Wednesday, October 9.

  Department of Journalism and Media Studies

  Professor Robert Kubey was quoted in Time in an article titled “5 Reasons Why TV’s Top Shows Are So Addictive.”

  Professor Deepa Kumar was interviewed on the RT channel’s “Breaking the Set” show.

  Professor Aram Sinnreich was quoted in Foreign Policy Today.

  Professor Aram Sinnreich was quoted in the Christian Science Monitor about technology and surveillance in the article, “Why Tech Giants Are Now Uniting Against U.S. Surveillance.”
Department of Library and Information Science

Professor Xiaomu Zhou was featured in a Rutgers Today story, "Improving Health Care, Controlling Costs - Rutgers Launches New Initiative." [link]

Digital Communication, Information and Media

Professional Development Studies

Dean’s Office

- Grants and Fundraising Efforts

  Department of Communication

  Professor Vikki Katz received a $623,035 grant from the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation for her proposal “Leveraging Technology for Learning in U.S. Latino Families.”

  Department of Journalism and Media Studies

  Department of Library and Information Science

  Digital Communication, Information and Media

  Professional Development Studies

  Dean’s Office

- Conferences, Seminars, Other Events

  Department of Communication

  Professor Galina Bolden presented two papers at the 2013 Annual Conference of the National Communication Association, Washington, D.C., “Constructing resistant responses in Russian conversation: An investigation into the turn-initial particle μν” and “Negotiating understanding in ‘intercultural moments’ in conversation.”

  Professor Galina Bolden was a keynote speaker at the Jan. 8 symposium at the Free University of Amsterdam, The Netherlands. Her talk (co-authored with Professor Jenny Mandelbaum) was titled "A Trip Down Memory Lane: Observations on Formulating Memories and the Organization of Co-Remembering in Conversation." Professor Bolden also conducted a workshop at the symposium.

  Professor Galina Bolden gave a talk titled "Repair and Epistemics in Conversation" at the Max Planck Institute for Psycholinguistics, Nijmegen, The Netherlands, Jan. 9, 2014.

  Professor Vikki Katz was an invited speaker at a roundtable discussion titled "Digital Media and Early Learning: What We Know and What We Need to Learn" hosted by the New America Foundation in Washington, DC on October 15, 2013.
Professor and Department Chair Laurie Lewis and Professor Brent Ruben attended the CIC (Committee for Institutional Cooperation) DEO (Department Executive Officers) seminar in Chicago the week of Nov. 11. Professor Ruben served as a Rutgers liaison, and Professor Lewis attended as a DEO Fellow.

Professor Jenny Mandelbaum presented a paper titled "Recruiting Assistance: Requests and Responses at the Dinner Table" at the Haifa University Department of Hebrew Language on Jan. 7, 2014.

Professor Lisa Mikesell presented a paper titled "Conflicting Demonstrations of Understanding in the Interactions of Individuals with Frontotemporal Dementia: Considering Cognitive Resources Underlying Conversation" at the Language and Social Interaction Working Group hosted by Teachers College Columbia University on October 18, 2013. She was also an invited speaker to discuss "Everyday Interactions with Individuals with Cognitive and Social Impairment: Exploring Human (Dis)Coordination and Mechanisms of Conversation" at a workshop titled "Bridging the Gap between Coordination and Conversation" hosted by Yeshiva University in New York City on October 24, 2013.

Professor Craig Scott was a presenter on a panel on "Research Directions in Identity and the Internet" at the Association of Internet Researchers conference in Denver, October 23-26, 2013.

Department of Journalism and Media Studies

Professor Melissa Aronczyk presented a paper (co-authored with Graeme Auld of Carleton University), “Tar, Ethics and Other Tactical Repertoires: Politics and PR around Oil,” at the recent National Communication Association conference.

Professor and department chair, Jack Bratich appears in a video from the roundtable called “Secretcy and Transparency” held at the Helix Center in New York City in December. The video also includes Rutgers Distinguished University Professor Michael Lewis.

Professor Christina Dunbar-Hester was a plenary panelist at the Drones and Aerial Robotics Conference at New York University on October 11, 2013. Her panel was entitled "A Right to Drones?" and she spoke about the politics of hobbyist and DIY technical cultures. Link

Professor Christina Dunbar-Hester was an invited plenary speaker on a panel about race and gender at the Association of Internet Researchers (AoIR) Annual Meeting in Denver, CO, on October 24, 2013. Her talk was entitled "Appropriation and Resistance in Activist Technical Cultures". She also participated in a "fishbowl" session about online identity at AoIR. Link

Professor Christina Dunbar-Hester gave an invited talk, "Producing Participation or Reproducing Inequality?: Tinkering and DIY in Media Activism," at the Participatory Condition, an International Colloquium, in Montreal, Canada, on Nov. 15, 2013.

Professor Robert Kubey gave a lecture on "Cross National Comparisons of Media Coverage of Global Warming" at National Chengchi University, Taipei, Taiwan, Dec. 4, 2013 (via Skype).

Professor Robert Kubey gave a talk on "Media Literacy Developments in the United States and for the Future," at the Symposium on the Historical Roots of Media Literacy at the Harrington School, University of Rhode Island, Providence, Rhode Island. He also gave a talk at the International Organization of Social Sciences and Behavioral Research on "Media Coverage of Global Warming" in New Orleans, LA and appeared on a TV panel program called "Fresh Outlook" from Everest Productions on EBRU TV, speaking about media coverage of the recent government shut-down and the new film "Fifth Estate."

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=UOWOJwpKoTk
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=-A1ejNh_M7c

Professor Robert Kubey has been named one of twenty “International Pioneers of Media Literacy" by the Center for Media Literacy.

Professor Deepa Kumar presented a paper at the UDC conference on the CIA and Hollywood, Nov. 2, 2013.

Department of Library and Information Science

Professor Nicholas Belkin presented a paper entitled "Rutgers' Research on Personalizing Information Retrieval" at the Research Seminar of the Department of Electrical and Computer Engineering, University of Delaware, on October 23 2013.

Professor Belkin presented an invited "opening" paper entitled "Framework(s) for Evaluation of (Whole-Session) Information Retrieval," at the Dagstuhl Seminar on Evaluation Methodologies in Information Retrieval, Schloss Dagstuhl, Germany, on 28 October 2013. He was also an invited participant in the Dagstuhl Seminar on Evaluation Methodologies in Information Retrieval, Schloss Dagstuhl, Germany, 28 October - 1 November 2013.

http://www.dagstuhl.de/de/programm/kalender/semhp/?semnr=13441

Professor Nicholas Belkin gave an invited presentation at the School of Information Studies at Syracuse University, "Identifying Information Seeking Intentions," on Dec. 5, 2013. Following the presentation, he collaborated with Diane Kelly, PhD alumnus and current associate professor at the School of Information and Library Science at UNC-Chapel Hill, to discuss PhD advisor-student relationships.

Professor Marie Radford presented a paper and participated on a panel at the National Communication Association Conference, held on Nov. 21-24, 2013, in Washington, D.C. Professor Radford presented the paper with Gary P. Radford, PhD alumnus, and PhD student Mark Alpert, titled “I, Librarian: Rex Libris and the Repression of the Real.” The panel discussion was titled, “Interdisciplinary Connection: Opportunities and Challenges.” Other panelists included M. Redmond, M., T., Coffelt, S. Tye-Williams, D. Vrchota, all of Iowa State University, and M. Wilson of La Sierra University.

Professor Rebecca Reynolds gave a visiting research talk to the University of Toronto's Graduate School of Education and Ontario Institute for Studies in Education titled, “Designing Digital Media Learning Contexts for Youth Involving Inquiry, Collaboration and Creation: The Role of Perceived Competence, Autonomy and Social Relatedness as Individual Psychological Constructs and Environmental Supports.” On Nov. 1, Professor Reynolds gave a one-hour visiting research talk with the same title to the McGill University Graduate School of Education and their Advanced Technologies for Learning in Authentic Settings (ATLAS) Lab.

Professor Chirag Shah delivered an invited talk, "Seeking Synergy in Information Seeking," to the University of Tennessee at Knoxville ASIST chapter at the School of Information Sciences on October 20, 2013. http://www.sis.utk.edu/organizations/asist

Professor Chirag Shah gave an invited talk on Dec. 16 titled "Communicating for Connecting: From Telephone to Twitter" at Meadow Lakes Retirement Community in Hightstown, NJ.

Professor Anselm Spoerri gave an invited talk entitled "Visualizing the Most Controversial and Popular Topics in Wikipedia" at the University of Richmond, hosted by the Center of International Studies and the Robins School of Business, on October 10, 2013. An interview with Professor Spoerri was broadcast on the National Austrian radio program "ORF Digital.Leben" on Oct 15, 2013, about his research on the Edit Wars in Wikipedia and how to visualize them. http://oe1.orf.at/programm/351724

Professor Anselm Spoerri gave an invited talk on Nov. 6, "Visualizing the Edit Wars in Wikipedia," at Yale University as part of the ISP Ideas Lunch series at the Yale Law School.

Professor Anselm Spoerri gave an invited talk on Nov. 22, "Visualizing the Most Controversial and Popular Topics in Wikipedia," at the Berkman Center for Internet & Society at Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.

Professor Xiaomu Zhou and Elizabeth Kazianas (PhD candidate, University of Michigan) presented their workshop paper, "Design to Support Personal Health Information Management," at ASIST Workshop on Personal Information Management, Nov. 8-9.

Professional Development Studies

PDS recently hosted a training program for a delegation of Shanghai Municipal Archivists and Archival Administrators. The 18-member delegation visited the United States for three weeks, with a seven-day stop at SC&I to attend a customized training program. The purpose of their visit was to gain a comprehensive understanding of the archival administration system in the United States. The facilitators of the program were: Professor Susan Keith, digital media coordinator for the MCIS Program; Tom Frusciano, university library archivist; Erika Gorder, associate university archivist; and Isaiah Beard, university digital data curator.

Digital Communication, Information and Media

Part-time faculty member (soon to be full-time faculty member) Mary Chayko presented a paper entitled "Students, Social Media and Surveillance" at the annual meeting of the Association for Humanist Sociology in Washington, DC on Saturday, October 12, 2013.

Dean's Office

Assistant dean for instructional support and assessment, Steve Garwood and instructional design and technology specialist, Denise Kreiger participated in the 2014 NJEDge "Digital Reality" Conference Workshop Breakout Session: Just-In-Time Faculty Professional Development Using Video Tutorials "Ignite" (5min). Presentation: Pinterest! For Student Collaborative Projects, and Poster Session: Pinterest! For Student Collaborative Projects.
Assistant dean for instructional support and assessment, Steve Garwood and Professor Nick Linardopoulos presented "Effective use of lecture Capture in a large lecture hall course" at the Rutgers Online & Hybrid Learning Conference on 1/16/14.

Instructional Design and Technology Specialist Denise Kreiger and parttime lecturer Denise Anderson, presented Jan. 16, 2014 at the RU Online & Hybrid Learning Conference on the topic of "Facilitating Independent Learning and Engaged Students - A Unique Approach to Hybrid Course Design."

Dean Claire McInerney participated in a panel at the International Conference on Knowledge Management, held in Montreal, Quebec, Canada, on Nov. 2. The panel consisted of i-School deans, and was titled “I-Schools in the Context of the Knowledge Economy.”

- Other (e.g., new appointments; alumni relations; staff activities; new websites)

  Department of Communication

  Professor Vikki Katz was appointed affiliate graduate faculty in the Rutgers department of sociology.

  Professor Jennifer Theiss was elected vice chair of the Interpersonal Communication Division of the National Communication Association (NCA).

  Department of Journalism and Media Studies

  JMS Alumnus Mike Emanuel is the “FOX News Channel” congressional correspondent and former White House correspondent.

  JMS Alum Brent Johnson was named by the Washington Post as one of the Top State Capitol Reporters in the country.

  JMS Alum S. Mitra Kalita’s book Suburban Sahibs was named to the list of 101 Great New Jersey Books.

  Professor Deepa Kumar was appointed associated graduate faculty in the Rutgers department of sociology.

  Professor David Greenberg was made a faculty associate of the Eagleton Institute of Politics at Rutgers.

  Department of Library and Information Science

  Digital Communication, Information and Media

  Professional Development Studies

  Dean’s Office

  Development

  David J. ('85) & Maria ('86) Pappalardo gave a gift of $10,279.00 to the Edward J. Mack Memorial Scholarship Fund which provides financial assistance to students with a declared major in Journalism and Media Studies.

  H. Julene Butler ('96) gave a gift of $500.00 to the SC&I Communications Department Support Fund.
Robert Wedgeworth (’13) contributed $500.00 to the SC&I Library and Information Science Department Support Fund.

David J. Harvey (’78): $200 gift to LIS Scholarship.

Dr. Rita A. Read (’94) and Paul T. Reischman: $500 gift to SC&I Dean's Fund.

Dr. Gregory S. Andriate (’74): $750 gift to SC&I Dean's Fund.

Aileen R. Chadwick (’90): $1,000 gift to SC&I Dean's Fund.

Professor Todd Hunt (retired faculty): $5,000 gift to Strategic Public Communication and Public Relations Program